

ARTS FEST

The Arts in Prevention Projects

The Arts at Work:
the power of possibilities

Workforce development, community revitalization, creative economy

Healthy individuals, healthy communities begins with possibilities and opportunities

Participation in arts activities, development of our creative capacities and engagement in community life contribute to our personal and social health, while at the same time giving us greater bounce and buoyancy in the face of stress'. Jude Treder-Wolff

Call for more info: 732.591.2362 ; artsinprevention@aol.com

New Jersey State Museum Auditorium
Trenton

Join in the discussion, pARTicipate

May 14 ,2009

2:00-8:00

'The ARTS Do The Public Good'

2:00-5:00 Panel/discussion

5:00-6:00 Refreshments

6:00-8:00 Performances from the community

Announcement of Artspeak: The Hunger Project